

Marcia K. Morgan

Women & Girls' Advocate · Speaker · Author

Engaging, Informative and Witty!

About Marcia - Marcia is passionately committed to giving women and girls a voice. She brings a wealth of knowledge to her presentations based on over 40-years experience working nationally and internationally with women's and girls' issues. Marcia shares tips on how she crafted her own path to reaching her goals while providing unique and practical insight that helps others achieve their dreams. Her credentials include:

- Lecturer, trainer, researcher, program evaluator, women and girls' advocate
- Widely-published author of numerous books and journal articles on women's safety
- Highly sought-after national/international consultant in gender and criminal justice practices working with US Department of Justice, US Attorney General, the Pentagon and many other government agencies and universities
- Over 1,000 presentations on the topic of gender
- Selected to represent the US at NATO conference in Italy on women's victimization
- She and colleague developed the anatomically-correct dolls used in child abuse investigations
- Written over 20 national training curricula on gender and sexual violence
- Bachelors, Oregon State University; Masters and Doctoral program, University of Oregon.

Presentation Topics

- How dreams disappear
- The power of goal objects
- The magic of mindfulness in pursuing your goals
- Exploring your creativity
- Capturing your goals and dreams
- Common roadblocks women and girls face when pursuing their dreams
- Visualization with goal objects
- The 4 Steps to Reaching your Goals
 - Step 1: Identifying your Goals and Dreams
 - Step 2: Finding your Goal Objects and Container
 - Step 3: Creating and Staging your Goal Objects
 - Step 4: Your Action Plan

Additional workshops and talks on gender issues (socialization, female psychosocial development, gender and crime, etc.) are also available.

To learn more and to schedule Marcia

Web: <http://marciakmorgan.com>

Email: marcia@migima.com

Phone: 541.389.4098